Get the Habit - Eat Brer Rabbit. Then you'll know how good pancakes and syrup can really be.

When she learned that baking bread was a drudgery that was nerve-racking, back-breaking and time-wasting -when she learned that drudgery was slavery, and that brains are worth more than hands—when she learned that efficiency means the most productive use of time. She learned this when, instead of baking, she bought and found that she had a delicious loaf for less money than it had cost her to do her own baking-a scientifically made loaf with all the nourishing qualities of good wheat, and without the use of any substitutes.

Every loaf sealed at the oven in dust-proof, germ-proof wrapper, and every loaf as good as it is possible for bread to be made. And at night-not too tired for a chat with the husband and maybe a romp with the children.
